

THE ELEMENTS OF SURPRISE

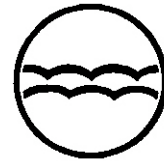

When the sun shines
I sing like a robin in a tree
When the stars are aligned
They were drawn for you and me

When the moon is glowing
I see a radiance of night's love
When the sky starts snowing
I see angels falling from above

When a breeze is so soft
It barely moves a blade of grass
And the clouds lay aloft
It just seems they'll never pass

When the rain starts falling
Released from those laden clouds
And the wind is calling
It's your name I hear out loud

When the thunder crashes down
Like the end of the world is at hand
Then a rainbow comes around
To reflect the beauty of the land

When lightning glares out
Like that light shone in your eyes
There leaves no room for doubt
It's the elements of surprise

